Annual Red Cross Drive Commences

Town Chairmen Are Named By Haigis

Mrs. Bertha W. Leach To Head Northfield Town Drive Assisted by Many Workers

The seventeenth annual Red Cross membership drive will commence this year on Armistice Day and continue until Thanksgiving Day. John W. Haigis of Greenfield, Franklin County Chairman, has named local town chairmen throughout the county.

Several meetings of these chairmen and their helpers, which they chose, have been held. Speakers at these meetings have given impetus to the drive. A section of the NRA parade last week in Greenfield was given over to the Red Cross with several members of the Junior Red Cross carrying the Red Cross banner.

In last year's drive in Northfield over $400. was received. It is hoped that this amount will again be raised this year. If one person in every Northfield family joins, this amount will be guaranteed.

The corps of workers this year is as follows: Mrs. Charles E. Leach, chairman, membership committee; canvassers, Miss Ellithorpe, Northfield Seminary; Miss Helen Handy, Winchester Road and vicinity; Mrs. Leon Alexander, New Hampshire line to Mrs. W. R. Moody's; Mrs. Ralph Forsyth, Birnam Road, Pine Street and upper end of School Street; Miss Sophia Servaes, Book Store Building; Miss Marion Kendrick, Highland Avenue and side streets east; Mrs. Ruth Darby and Miss Elizabeth Braley, West Northfield; Mrs. Ross Spencer, from Mrs. W. R. Moody's to bridge on Main Street and side streets; Mrs. George Pefferle, from bridge on Main Street to Warwick Avenue and side streets; Mrs. Thomas Parker, from Warwick Avenue to Bernardston Road; Miss Dorothy Wright, Parker and Warwick Avenues; Rev. W. W. Coe, Maple Street; Miss Mary Dalton, East Street and Plain Road; Mrs. Phillip Mann, from Bernardston Road to Upper Meadow Road and Mountain Road; Mrs. Willis Parker, from Upper Meadow Road to Lower Meadow Road including upper end of meadow; and Mrs. Walter Scoble, from Lower Meadow Road to Erving Line and lower end of meadow.

Community Welfare Committee Asks Aid

Last winter, Mrs. Earl Lilly, the community nurse, visited a home where there were three children suffering from malnutrition. The father had only occasional jobs, and they were trying to live on a greatly reduced income, being too proud to ask for help. The doctor had ordered cod liver oil for the children, but how could they get it when there was no money?

Another day last winter it was called to Mrs. Lilly's attention that two children were attending school with shoes nearly worn out, and no rubbers. Their parents had not the money to meet the desperate needs of the children.

Numerous other emergency cases like the foregoing could be cited. It happens that Mrs. Lilly is a member of the Community Welfare Committee appointed by the selectmen last December. This committee had received $45 in all from the Northfield Brotherhood and certain individuals. This money was drawn upon to buy the cod liver oil, shoes and rubbers referred to above, and in other cases, to purchase hose, caps, undergarments, overcoats and etc. to safeguard the health and well-being of children and grown-ups.

In addition, the committee was able to pass on a large number of new and secondhand articles of clothing now or donated by friends in town. Two large quots of flour distributed by the Federal government which came to Northfield were given to needy families.

The first fall of snow revives the need of protection against cold and hunger of many in Northfield. The welfare officer of the town is quick to render aid when he is applied to by deserving persons, but there are always cases that hardly come within his legal duty. Where these are not taken care of by private charity or the social work of the churches and other organizations, the welfare committee can be called on for aid. So this committee would appeal to the people of Northfield for new or secondhand articles of clothing of all kinds for young and old of both sexes, for shoes and rubbers, farm produce and other food, anything that will be useful to those in need. Money gifts will be especially useful, as purchases often have to be made to satisfy special cases. Miss Mary Dalton is treasurer of the Community Welfare Committee, and Mr. George Carr is chairman. Other members are Mrs. W. A. Barr, Mrs. Earl Lilly, and A. P. Pitt.

Christmas Seal Sale Plans Are Discussed

Mrs. F. E. Chapman, President of the Franklin County Public Health Association, entertained several Christmas Seal Chairmen at a luncheon meeting at her home in Shelburne Falls on Saturday. After the luncheon, Mrs. Chapman called the meeting to order and stated that the purpose of getting together was to learn about the work of the Association and to devise ways and means of increasing the sale of Christmas Seals.

Miss Elsie F. Smith, R. N. Executive Secretary of the Association, talked on the work of the Association. She said in part: "The chief objective of a tuberculosis program is popular education in personal and community hygiene." Our association secured speakers on tuberculosis for all but four of the county granges and for twelve of the Parent Teacher Associations of the county last year, besides having complete charge of two Women's Club programs. The Christmas Seal Playlet was given seven times in the county.

Christmas Seal funds are paying for the distribution of the new Suggested Unit on Teaching Tuberculosis, written by Jean V. Latimer, Educational Secretary of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League to the teachers in Junior and Senior High School.

Other units on Community Hygiene and Physiology written by Miss Latimer are now in use in Franklin County since the recent visit of Miss Latimer to all of the Superintendents of Schools in the county. Miss Smith briefly outlined the way in which the money is spent, stating that 85 per cent of the funds are spent in Franklin County and that $700 of these funds were given towards the support of the Health Camp.

Service to patients is given in their homes and through the clinics. The Association was instrumental in starting the present monthly clinic held by the Greenfield Health for the diagnosis of tuberculosis and each month assistance is given at the clinic.

MOUNT HERMON

Breaking a tradition of intramural sports that has held since 1896 Mount Hermon will have its first taste of interscholastic sports in 37 years. Sat. Nov. 11 when Harvey Conn, Dartmouth's track coach, brings down ten of his freshmen cross-country team to run against the Hermonites in the 2.7 mile event. This meet will mark the re-entry of Mount Hermon into competition with outside schools, a policy renewed by Elliot Speer, who became Headmaster of Mount Hermon last fall.

From 1885 to 1897 Mount Hermon regularly engaged in interscholastics in all major sports, playing such teams as Williams, Dartmouth and Amherst freshmen, and Cushing, Williston, and Andover. Richard L. Watson who has seen long service on the Hermon faculty, can also recall occasions when the Hermon football team met college varsity teams—and beat them. Lack of proper financial and physical equipment, among other reasons, caused Mount Hermon to abandon interscholastics and to turn to interclass and intermural competition. Especially in the last five years under the supervision of Axel B. Forslund, a graduate of Springfield College, a strong intramural program has been built up. One of Forslund's innovations, with which he has been noticeably successful, is the forming of a Junior League for youngsters between the ages of 14 and 16—a field greatly neglected in most schools.

The past year has found many significant changes in Mount Hermon's athletic policy. The plant has been enlarged and the personnel reorganized. This year Thorlief Henriksen was appointed assistant physical director. A Springfield College man, he will be head coach in football, assisted by Harlan L. Baxter of Dickinson and Arthur D. Platt, Trinity football player. Mr. Forslund will coach soccer and track, with Malcolm E. Foster assisting in soccer. Frank Bayley, Dickinson track star of 1926 and a member of the New York Athletic Club, is also a member of the Hermon faculty and trains with the track squad. Fall tennis was coached by Malcolm Marshall and Eugene Link.

Although the interscholastic system is being gradually reintroduced, Mount Hermon plans to retain intramurals in addition. The school will also continue its policy of offering its athletic facilities twice a week to the school-boys of Gill and Northfield.

At the noon-day chapel service last Tuesday, Headmaster Speer announced that Mount Hermon would play a post-season soccer game with Williston Academy on Wednesday, Nov. 15 at Easthampton; and on Saturday Nov. 18, the Williston football team meets Mount Hermon at Hermon.

GILL

A meeting of the Gill Parent-Teachers Association will be held on Tuesday in the Gill Town Hall. Supper will be served from six until eight. The speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Eikert.

Robbins Heads County Teachers

Greenfield Meeting Names New Officers

Northfield Superintendent Is Chosen at 46th Annual Convention of Franklin County Teachers

School Supt. Linville W. Robbins was chosen president of the Franklin County Teachers' association at the 46th annual convention held in Greenfield Friday when several hundred public school teachers from all sections of the county gathered at Greenfield high school auditorium for the business meeting.

Other officers elected were: Principal Dwight Shaw Davis, Orange, first vice-president; Supt. Frederick W. Porter, Greenfield, second vice-president; Principal Mildred M. Hartwell, Greenfield, secretary; and George Wrightson, Turners Falls, treasurer.

Anne Biddle, President. Members of the executive committee were chosen as follows: Principal Hiram F. Battey of South Deerfield, Principal George A. J. Proberger of Shelburne Falls and Supt. Edward C. Hempell of Orange. Members of the nominating committee which submitted the above slate of officers were Supt. Marvin E. Jones of Deerfield, Principal Arthur E. Burke of Turners Falls and Principal Edgar Burr Smith of Greenfield.

Principal Anne J. Biddle of Old Deerfield presided and Dr. Charles W. Merriam of Old Deerfield gave the devotional exercises. Frank P. Davison of Shelburne Falls gave the report of the Massachusetts Teachers' federation activities, and Principal Smith of Greenfield reported on the National Educational convention, both men calling for the cooperation of the teachers in supporting local teachers' clubs and the state federation and national association.

The speaker of the morning was Dr. J. Edgar Park president of Wheaton college, who urged the use of new method and new spirit in classroom teaching, declaring: "The great campaign of today is to deliver the American school from boredom." After an intermission during which the high school orchestra played, Dr. George W. Coleman, founder of Ford Hall forum at Boston told with many anecdotes the work of the forum. He declared that the nation's great problem today is learning how to live together to mutual advantage.

Elements of good and happiness are present throughout the country but they do not get together properly, Dr. Coleman indicated. One great meeting place is the public schools, he said, adding, "But we need a common meeting ground for adults, where men and women can come together, hear able leaders and discuss great issues." Such a place, he indicated, is Ford Hall forum.

Following the morning session the convention divided into groups for departmental discussions, and soon after 1 p. m. the men met at the Weldon for luncheon with Supt. Grover C. Bowman of North Adams the speaker.

Seminary Alumnus Speakers At Chapel

One of Northfield Seminary's many alumnae serving in the foreign mission field, Miss Mary D. Thomas, has recently spent a few days in Northfield. She has been spending her furlough at her home in Lima, Ohio, and stopped here on her way back to her mission station in Burma where she is superintendent-principal of the American Baptist Mission School for girls at Kemmedine, near Rangoon. Miss Thomas was entertained last Saturday evening at the home of Miss Edna Cullen and Miss Alice Mundee on Highland Avenue where she gave an interesting account of her work to a small group of local Seminary alumnae.

Miss Thomas was the Seminary Chapel speaker Tuesday morning when she gave the students a vivid picture of the manners and customs of Burmese girls and to make the pictures more real she displayed a native girl's dress. Miss Thomas who graduated in 1911 has many friends in Northfield. Many local graduates of The Northfield Schools will remember, too, her sister Lois of the class of 1913 and her brother Paul who graduated from Mount Hermon in 1908.

Miss Thomas left Northfield Wednesday and will sail from New York November 17 and arrive in India about January 1st.

Athletic Association Will Stage Play

A committee, representing the Northfield Athletic Association and headed by Mr. L. H. Larelle met with a representative of the National Association of Dramatics Inc., to make plans for the staging of a dramatic entertainment to be presented in Northfield Town Hall on December 14 and 15. The name of the production is "Heads Up!", a three act comedy, which will include in its cast about 45 local players.

The play, "Of These I Sing" which ran for two years on Broadway and won the famous Pulitzer Prize is followed by "Heads Up!" which is similar in theme. It is particularly adapted to small communities.

It has a college theme running through it with professors, sorority girls and fraternity boys all blended together in a riotous comedy farce. The play has all original music and is not the usual type of production that has been presented by professional companies.

The committee is already planning to make this production one of the finest ever attempted. Further details regarding the cast will be announced later.

"Margery," said her Mother, "I'm surprised at your putting out your tongue at people."

"It's all right, ma," returned the child, "it was just the doctor going past."

Burgess Speaks In Greenfield

Noted Naturalist Heard By Large Group

Illustrated Lecture By Famous Children's Writer Sponsored By P. T. A. of Greenfield

More than 600 children and adults attended the illustrated lecture given Thursday evening in the Greenfield High School auditorium by Thornton Burgess, well known Springfield naturalist, whose topic was "Down Nature's Trail." The lecture was sponsored by the Four Corners Parent-Teacher association under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. L. Weeks.

Illustrating his talk with motion pictures, Mr. Burgess showed wild life in three sections of North America. Tropical wild life in Panama occupied the first part of the lecture. From Panama the lecturer went to Labrador where many interesting pictures of native birds were shown. Finally the audience was brought back to this state where native birds seldom seen by residents of this section were pictured. Among the pictures were those of Dick, a tame robin which the naturalist photographed in Greenfield some time ago and which was owned and trained by Louis LaShier, local bird and animal trainer.

American Legion To Have Celebration

The Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary, will hold an Armistice Day celebration in the Town Hall on Saturday evening. A supper will be served followed by dancing.

The committee in charge includes from the Auxiliary, Mrs. Grady Hoyle, chairman, Mrs. Sarah Finch and Mrs. Sidney Given. The Legion committee is in charge of Mr. Harold F. Bigelow, chairman, Mr. C. W. Mattern and Mr. H. F. Atwood. Miss Edith Steadler is in charge of the dining room.

The turkeys for the supper were obtained from Mr. George Miller of Bernardston, a legionsaire. It is expected that about 200 will be present for the supper.

There will be some special features at the dance after the supper. It is planned to serve the supper from six to seven-thirty with dancing following from eight to midnight.

Seminary Items

Sunday evening, November 12, at 7:45 in Sage Chapel there will be an hour of music given by Miss Marian Keller and Miss Marion Fuller of the Seminary Music Department.

The fall outdoor gymnasium classes are being changed this week for the regular winter schedule of indoor classes.

Dr. Robert E. Speer of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions was the speaker at both services in Sage Chapel last Sunday. The topic of his morning talk was "What is Christianity?" and at Vespers "The Joys of Christianity."

Next Sunday, Nov. 12, Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown and the Sedalia singers will conduct the morning service and the Rev. Lester P. White of Mount Hermon will be the speaker at Vespers.

Dr. Rimmer To Speak At Trinitarian Church

Can a Scientific Man Believe the Bible? This question will be the general theme of a series of addresses in the Trinitarian Church November 21 to 28, inclusive. The speaker will be Dr. Harry Rimmer of Los Angeles. Meetings will be held at 3 P. M. and 7:30 P. M. daily.

Dr. Rimmer has spent nearly 25 years in intensive scientific study. He is an expert in several scientific fields, is particularly interested in archeology, and has headed a number of expeditions. He is president of the Science Research Bureau, curator of the museum of the Teacher's College in Kansas, a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and numerous other organizations. He is in great demand as a speaker in many sections of the country.

Dr. Rimmer does not pose as an evangelist, although he has an evangelistic message. His great value lies in his ability to recreate in the hearts of Christian people a confidence in the dependability of the Bible as the Word of God, and he brings the revelations of modern archeology and the findings of scientists in various fields to bear upon this subject. His messages are so intensely interesting that his audiences always multiply with the progress of the meetings. He is a man's man, and business men of the class hard to interest are the ones who react most favorably to his messages. He is also popular with young people. While in Boston last year he spoke in a number of schools, and in every instance he was invited back by the school authorities.

All meetings will be open to the public.

Long Quotes Law In Assessor's Question

Mr. Henry F. Long, Massachusetts Tax Commissioner, has, in reply to local inquiries, stated that "The assessors valuation book and abatement book are public property and can be seen by anyone at any reasonable time."

A question had arisen locally over the legal right to examine the assessors records in order to obtain certain required information. As this privilege had been denied, Mr. Long was requested to give his opinion or state the law governing such cases.

A dance will be held in Grange hall, Northfield, Friday, November 10. Jillson's Orchestra will play. Light refreshments will be served at intermission. Adv.

Spectres On Parade

One reason why there is less appreciation than there should be of the horror of our annual automobile death toll is that the accidents happen far apart geographically, and at intervals throughout the entire year so that the total of a single day in a single locality does not particularly disturb us. Again, few motorists, comparatively speaking, see an accident in which someone is killed or seriously injured.

It would be well for the public to put its imagination to work on this situation. Here's one way to do it. Suppose that you, and all the millions of other car-owners, could be seated in a tremendous reviewing stand. Marching by slowly in front of you are the 35,000 shrouded spectres of persons who were killed by automobiles last year. To each shrouded figure is clinging one or more bereaved relative. The parade would take many hours to pass—a silent, marching line of lives that had been destroyed because some one was careless or reckless or incompetent.

The very unpleasantness of that illustration is what makes it valuable. The fact that only an infinitesimal proportion of the 35,000 victims are killed in your community doesn't make any difference. Nor does the fact that only a comparatively few deaths occur on a given day. Remember that each year sees hundreds of tragedies as horrible as those of the Titanic or the Akron — and they are all unnecessary.

Think of that long, horrible parade. And then decide what kind of a driver you will strive to be in the future.

National Fire Loss Goes Down

As the year draws toward its close, the National Board of Fire Underwriters makes a heartening announcement — the estimated fire loss for the first nine months of 1933 was $245,850,000, as compared with $341,050,000 in the same period in 1932.

Though a large part of this saving must be attributed to depression values of property burned rather than to actual reduction in value of property destroyed, these figures show definite and striking progress — the greatest progress in fire prevention made in many years. Every reduction in fire loss means that wealth which would otherwise have been totally destroyed has continued to work in channels that provide opportunity and employment—that it has gone into the pockets of workmen and through the tills of merchants and touched the hands of farmers.
It is reflected in the balance sheets of companies, and in the return they are able to pay their security-holders. It is, in brief, a strong influence in support of recovery.

Now it's time to think of the $245,000,000 that was destroyed.
It's safe to say that at least $200,- 000,000 of the waste was entirely unnecessary. People were careless with gasoline—with electricity—with heating plants—with explosives. They allowed waste to accumulate. They didn't trouble to correct known fire hazards, thinking they would do it tomorrow.
Tomorrow never came—but fire did.

There's no reason for sitting still.
We've made a fine start. But congratulating ourselves.
There's much more to be done—and every citizen should join the fight to not only maintain but improve this record.

THE STORY OF NORTHFIELD

PREPARATIONS FOR FIRST SETTLEMENT

By HENRY H. FRANKLIN

The Coming Of The White Man

Many moons had come and gone, many seasons worn away, yea, generations had passed into eternity since the tribal ancestors had come to the great river. Here had they burned the forests, year after year, raising their crops of Indian corn and vegetables. Here had they remained in times of peace, spearing the salmon that gorged the many brooks flowing into old Quinehquett, and hunting the game which abounded in the lowland swamps and forests.
There had been wars—old forgotten ones with ancient enemies, and recent ones with the fierce Mohawks. Even now the village was agog with warlike preparations for a great drive on the latter.

Sag, old Massemet, chief of the Squakhega, sat before his hut, carefully twisting sinews into bowstrings. His pensive mutter-ings ceased abruptly as he glanced up at the approach of a panting and much excited tribes-man.

"Paleface," gasped the warrior, pointing toward the southern ridge, and with flying fingers quickly to his story.

Tales of the white men had reached the village before. Red brothers to the East had related the arrival of the first palefaces and told of their steady advances upon the native hunting grounds.
The present visitors had long been anticipated.

Now, upon the southern ridge, sat four horsemen, surveying the rolling hills and broad meadows which bordered the banks of the wide river. The May sun shone brilliantly from a cloudless sky, brightening the scene below. Perhaps these men saw visions of a peaceful colonial village, as they gazed complacently, resting in their saddles. One there was among them whose very destiny lay hidden in those visions. Little did he dream that one day he would lie entombed beneath the very spot where now he sat, the first martyr to be put beneath the sod in the struggle of that first white settlement. Captain Richard Beers, his companions called him.

Others of the party were Captain Daniel Gookin, Captain Thomas Prentice and Daniel Henchman. They had been commissioned by the General Court to lay out a township near Quin-sigmond (Worcester) and had continued to the West in search of desirable town sites. A few days after the native Squakhegas had, from ambush, seen them turn their mounts and ride away, they delivered the report of their commission, dated May, 1669. In this report they recommended for settlement the territory they had viewed along the Connecticut and which they called "Suckquake." This word was a contraction from the Indian vernacular, meaning a spearing-placefor-salmon.

After the departure of their first white visitors and the excitement that their appearance had created, the Squakhegas settled down to further preparations for war. In the Fall they joined with the Nonotucks and Pocumtucks and began their great drive against the fierce and warlike Mohawks. Revenge for the many defeats suffered at the hands of the latter was their aim, and retribution pounded in every savage heart. Alas, their expedition was doomed to failure for their enemies proved invulnerable. Having sustained heavy losses and broken in spirit, they returned to their native villages, once more to pursue the ordinary course of livelihood.

This frustrated invasion, although seemingly irrelevant, has an important bearing on our story. For having been defeated as a tribe, the Squakhegas looked forward to the coming of the white men whom they thought would prevent the taking of their territory by the Mohawks. Nor did they have long to wait.

Early in the Spring of 1670, Joseph Parsons, Sr., William James, George Alexander and his son-in-law, Micah Mudge, left Northampton, riding along the well-worn Indian trail to the North. A long days journey over the soft ground, which had but just lost its mantle of white, brought them to the edge of the Squakhega village. Here they were greeted as friends in the most cordial Indian fashion. Old Massemet immediately ordering a feast to be placed before them.
After hearty repast of baked fish, roast venison and succotash which the squaws had prepared for them, the men sat about the fire taking counsel with Massemet and the other chiefs. It was learned that the red men were eager to sell their lands if they could retain for themselves the right to remain and continue their hunting, fishing and primitive agriculture. No doubt, visions of their arch enemies suddenly swooping down upon them and taking it anyway, prompted their desire to sell the land. At any rate, such a proposal was met with approval by the prospective settlers. On the morrow, having viewed the entire territory with a high degree of satisfaction, the exploring party bid adieu to its hosts.

Upon their return to Northampton, the members of the expedition related in glowing terms what they had seen. Many of the hardier souls among the townspeople were fired anew with the pioneer spirit and signified their willingness to remove to the new territory as soon as a purchase could be effected and permission for settlement obtained from the General Court.

The Purchase Completed

About a year later, in the Summer of 1671, the same four men, together with Caleb Bromery, again set forth to the Suckquake territory. Again they were received with utmost cordiality by the natives. That night huge council fires were lit and all present ceremoniously squatted around in the warmth and glow while the ornamental pipe of peace was slowly passed from hand to hand. The remains of similar council fires may be seen today, South of Northfield on Route 68, a marker having been there erected by the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary Committee. When the pipe had gone the rounds, the chiefs and their white visitors drew up provisions for the sale of the land. In the name of Joseph Parsons, Sr., 10,- 560 acres were purchased "for a valuable consideration." The exact amount is unknown but in 1686 a further payment was made to supplant the Squak-hegas who evidently thought they had received the worst of the bargain. The tract thus obtained extended from Coosack on the North to Quantock on the South and included a six mile strip on each side of the river. (It is interesting to note here that in the signing of the Indian deeds the squaws seemed to have had equal suffrage with the male members of the tribe.) And so, on the next day, the purchase having been completed, the little band returned to their respective homes.

During the subsequent winter, plans for settlement were eagerly discussed by all who could be interested in the project. A petition was finally drawn up by about twenty families that were willing to brave the hardships of establishing a new community. Indeed, fortitude was a principle virtue required of all who enlisted in the new venture. When the document had been duly signed, the prayer of the petition was sent to the General Court, asking that permission for settlement be granted and that colony government be extended over the proposed community.

On May 15, 1672 the General Court met and acted favorably upon the proposition. Permission was granted for a settlement, to be not over six miles square and extending not more than eight miles along the Connecticut River. A committee consisting of William Clarke, William Holton, Samuel Smith, William Alys and Isaac Graves was appointed to lay out the plantation, reserving 300 acres of upland and meadow for the "use of the country." The same commission was to grant lots to the settlers, order all private affairs, "and to take special care that a godly preacher be placed there as soon as there is twenty families settled."

The Plantation Staked Out

The above named committee, visiting the Squakheg territory for the first time that Autumn, must have been overpowered by the deep impression of beauty that was fairly thrust upon them. The foliage was at its height of dazzling brilliance.
"Color" was shouted from every wooded hillside. Nor was the beauty that greeted their eyes confined to Nature. Old Massemet had gone to his eternal home in the happy hunting grounds and Asogoa, a beautiful Indian princess, now held a position of importance in the tribe. Said to be the picture of feminine pulchritude, this maiden swayed the white guests as she did her own tribesmen. Verily a royal welcome was extended to the committee. The men remained for several days enjoying the Indian hospitality while carrying out the dictates of their commission.

There was surveying to be done, natural boundaries to be discovered and defined, and plots to be laid out for the future tenants. All of these things were speedily accomplished and as a farewell ceremony the new township was christened "Northfield." The name was indicative of the fact that the town was then the northernmost settlement on the river.

In presenting an account of its activities to the General Court, the committee reported as follows:

"We appointed and ordered a brook called Natanis, on the west side of the Great River, to be the bounds at the Southerly end; then we measured up the river, to a little river that runs into the Great River, and appointed it to run westerly three quarters of a mile from the Great River; on the east side of the River to come to the lower end of the Three Little Meadows that are below the town's plot, and so to run up the River eight miles, and three miles and three-quarters easterly from the Great River.

Thus we see that the town of Northfield as originally planned included all or parts of the present towns of Northfield, East Northfield, Gill, South Vernon, Hinsdale and Ashuelot.

Came the Spring of 1673. The buds on the great Oaks along the riverbank were bursting and forcing off the old leaves which had clung so tenaciously throughout the long winter. The snow had disappeared entirely from the open meadows which were again acquiring their carpet of green.
Travel conditions along the forest trails were now favorable. The stage was set for the first settlement of Northfield.

"FOOTLIGHT PARADE"

With a cast headed by a dozen popular screen favorites and including 250 of the most beautiful girls in the world, "Footlight Parade," Warner Brothers' gigantic musical successor to "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933" will arrive on the screen at the Litchfield Theatre, Brattleboro, Vermont, next Monday to remain for four days.

The new and mammoth spectacle is said to far surpass its predecessors in the originality and beauty of its ensembles, in its hilarious comedy drama plot, its songs and its romantic love interest.

There is a definite and well knit plot with riotously funny situations and sparkling comedy. Two teams of players furnish the love interest played by James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell.

Two of the big surprises in this vast production are the singing and dancing of Cagney, who really started his stage career as a hooper.

Four gigantic musical numbers which he states surpass anything he has yet done are staged by Busby Berkeley who created and staged the ensembles for both "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933." They include a most unique cat number in which scores of beautiful girls and chorus men dressed in feline costumes frolic in the moonlight and make love on the backyard fence.

The scene by a waterfall is a glorified spectacle in which more than a hundred swimming girls take part. This is one of the most mammoth sets ever constructed, including besides a gigantic pool with scenes shot from beneath the water, a massive revolving fountain upon which the girls ramble clad only in golden tresses.

The "Honeycomb Hotel" and "Shanghai Lil" numbers are equally unique and effective. Never has there been such luring music and catchy songs as in this new musical.

Seminary Plans To Build New Reservoir

Northfield seminary is laying plans for the construction of a new reservoir near the site of the existing one to increase the water supply of the school and of the residents of East Northfield who are supplied through the East Northfield Water Co., from this source. The needs of the school for more water has been occasioned by the increased use in added student enrollment and new uses such as the swimming pool. The population of East Northfield, supplied from the existing reservoir, also has increased. A number of lots of woodland have been acquired for this purpose, and it is planned to complete the acquisition of the necessary land to protect the watershed of the new reservoir, before construction begins. Due to premature announcement of the plans of the seminary in this regard, there may be a delay in completing the purchases, but it is hoped the work may proceed rapidly as the construction of the reservoir will be a source of employment. It is also desired to increase the water reserve for that locality as the capacity use of the present supply leaves insufficient water stored for use in a prolonged drought or for adequate fire protection in the town. It is planned to have several weeks' supply in storage in the new reservoir.

Fifty Boys Attend Classes

Hermion Gymnasium Opens To Town Boys

Groups From All Sections Of Town Attend Opening Night; Instructors Are Selected For Classes.

The Monday evening classes for town boys at Mount Hermon Gymnasium had an auspicious opening this week. Over 50 boys were present from all sections of Northfield.

Mr. Axel Forslund, physical director, spoke a few words of welcome and encouragement. He introduced his assistant, Thorleif Hendriksen, as instructor of the classes.

After twenty minutes of calisthenic exercises at the opening, the boys had a number of relay races. Following the races, the juniors went to the swimming pool where Mr. Hendriksen gave instructions and supervised the work. During this time, the older boys played basketball with Mr. George Carr as umpire.

Among friends who provided transportation for the boys were Mr. Fred Bolton, Mr. Lewis Wood, Mr. Donald Finch and Mr. Victor Vaughn.

These classes will be open every Monday evening until December 18, inclusive. After a vacation of two weeks, they will resume on January 8 and will continue until May. Boys over ten years of age who live in any part of Northfield are welcome. Sneakers, vests and shorts are all they need to wear to be allowed on the gymnasium floor.

Apple Growers Benefit By Federal Selling Aid

Fruit Will Be Used To Supply Welfare Cases In This State Through Distribution Centers

All fruit growers of Massachusetts who are harassed by overdue taxes, interest on mortgages and other inescapable demands are urged by the State Department of Agriculture to make immediate application to sell apples to the Federal Government and get their share of the $300,000 recently appropriated. Through the efforts of Dr. A. W. Gilbert, state commissioner of agriculture, $25,000 has been allotted for the purchase of Massachusetts apples. The $25,000 will be spent in the purchase of B grade apples at 40 cents a bushel. These apples must be delivered at certain welfare centers for distribution to needy families. The specifications require 2 1/2 inch apples and provide that the containers shall be returned to the growers. No purchase will be made from any grower of less than 50 nor more than 400 bushels.

Arrangements have been made by Dr. Gilbert with the Massachusetts Fruit Growers' Association to assist him in making these purchases from the fruit growers, including both the general farmers and those who grow fruit exclusively. While fruit growers as a whole, have been reasonably prosperous in the state, this is the third year in which the price they receive for apples is less than the cost of production. A good many of them are in really serious financial difficulties as the result of this situation.

Massachusetts has a large surplus of B grade Baldwin apples this year. Under normal conditions, they would be exported to Great Britain but this movement has been restricted by the heavy Canadian apple crop. The $25,000 federal money will provide an outlet for 62,500 bushels of these apples and will assist a good many fruit growers and general farmers in meeting their obligations.

Blank forms of applications have been drawn up and any farmer or specialized fruit grower, who can meet the requirements, is invited to communicate with the State Department of Agriculture, State House, Boston.

Armistice Day Supper Is Unusual Success

The Armistice Day supper and celebration under the auspices of Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion and its auxiliary, was an unusual success. The dance which followed the supper was also well attended despite the unfavorable weather.

The tables had been set to accommodate 186 people, but due to the attendance, they were reset and about 125 more were served.

Following the supper, a dance was held in the hall. Special features and favors were enjoyed by the large audience. Two pairs of knitted mittens made by Mrs. Francis Steenbruggen of the Auxiliary, went to Charles Johnson of Northfield and Mr. Turner of Barnardston.

The Legion Auxiliary express their thanks to the Northfield Hotel and Valley Vista Inn, and to the women who are not members of the Auxiliary, as well as the townspeople for their support.

An old negro's worthless son was married secretly. The old man heard of it and asked the boy if he was married.

"I ain't sayin' I ain't," the boy replied.

"Now you, Rastus," stormed the old man. "I ain't askin' you is you ain't; I is askin' you ain't you is?"

Corn Stubble Should Be Destroyed This Month

For several years the Division of Plant Pests has carried on an educational program for the control of the corn borer and has done comparatively little in enforcing the law which requires the destruction of corn stubble. They appear to feel that sufficient time has been given the farmers to become acquainted with the provisions of the law and they are now starting out on a program of enforcing it.

Franklin County farmers may expect their corn fields to be inspected by the state inspectors and when the law has not been complied with they will be required to make explanations to the proper authorities. Any who have failed to destroy their corn stubble should do so before December first, and thus avoid the possibility of any trouble.

Armistice Day Observed At Mt. Hermon Chapel

Armistice Day was observed Saturday by a chapel program which was sponsored by the Lyceum Club. Mr. D. F. McBride of East Milton was chairman. Mr. William Quick of Camden, N. J. read the President's proclamation. Mr. A. H. Rafferty of New London, Conn., gave the principal address. Mr. R. R. Fisk of Belmont read a poem and also the names of the 69 Mount Hermon men who lost their lives in the World War. Taps were sounded.

Healthy Home Magazine Sold

Brock Retires From Publishing Business

Forty-Three Year Old Publication Sold To Hygeia of American Medical Association

Mr. Winfield H. Brock, founder and for forty-three years sole owner of "The Healthy Home," has sold the franchise, good will and subscription list to Hygeia, a health magazine published by the American Medical Association. Subscribers of "The Healthy Home" will receive the latter publication.

The sale of the "Healthy Home" removes from active work the last of the old time publishers. Less than a year ago, Miss Hattie French disposed of her publication, "The Church Record." She had been engaged in the publishing business for a half century, and it was in the "Healthy Home" office that her publication was printed.

Mr. Brock was born in Athol on October 24, 1861 and is a descendant of one of the oldest families in Athol. He continues to live in the ancestral homestead on Pleasant Street. He was graduated from the Athol High School in the class of 1878 and after teaching school and pursuing further studies, he entered the newspaper field. In 1895, he purchased an interest in "The Cotter," an Athol weekly. In 1899, he bought a half-interest in "The Athol Transcript." He has never taken an active interest in its management, giving his entire attention to "The Healthy Home."

In September 1889, he married Miss Angela B. Ford of Hanover and they have two children. Mr. Brock is a member of the Congregational Church of Athol and has been its treasurer for over twenty-five years. He is a member of the town appropriations committee and has served the town on many other important committees. He has also been town moderator and his counsel is often sought on municipal problems. He has been an extensive traveler, his sojourns taking him to various parts of the world, and his travel talks are familiar to many New Englanders.

When Mr. Brock conceived the idea of a new periodical devoted to subjects concerning the health, he secured the co-operation of nearly 200 prominent physicians, including some of the leaders of the profession in Boston, and also members of the faculties in nearly all of the important medical colleges in New England. In 1889, he launched the new venture as a side issue to his other business, calling it "The Healthy Home." Through Mr. Brock's successful managing, the paper has been a financial success during all these years, a helpful monthly visitor in the thousands of homes throughout the country.

Schools May Enter W. C. T. U. Contests

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Bessie Symonds on Highland Avenue for the discussion of High School and Grammar School contests in essay writing, poster making, and other methods of interesting young people in temperance work. A "crucible" has been started into which pieces of discarded silver and gold may be consigned for the purpose eventually of turning them into money for the furtherance of the cause.

Seminary News Notes

An Armistice Day Chapel service was conducted by Chaplain Harold B. Ingalls, at Sage Chapel Saturday morning. The special features of the program were appropriate music, a prayer for peace, and the playing of "Taps" by Helen Goodwin, the blind cornetist.

Tryouts for the annual Tau Pi play are being held under the direction of Miss Dorothea Shute. The society has for many years been comprised of upper class girls who are interested in the creative and technical sides of stage production. The choice this year is "Pergamon," a fascinating work of Shaw. Rehearsals will begin as soon as the entire cast has been completed. The play will be presented before the Seminary on Saturday, December 16.

Miss Helen Wright, head of the Mathematics Department of the Seminary spoke at the Wednesday morning chapel service. Her topic was "What Is the Essence of Christianity?"

Prof. Morse of Mount Hermon History Department introduced Book Week to the Seminary by a chapel talk on his visit to the Hereford Cathedral and the famous chained library there.

The Hour of Music, played by Miss Kellar and Miss Fuller of the Seminary faculty on Sunday evening was very enjoyable.

The Sedalia Singers, from the Allen Freeman Palmer Institute in Sedalia, N. C., gave many enjoyable programs during their stay here. Friday morning they sang secular music in place of music drill. Saturday morning they sang for the Music Appreciation Class. On Sunday morning they took part in the chapel service and Sunday afternoon they sang in the Marquand drawing room.

Palmer Institute Head Speaker At Mt. Hermon

Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown Tells Of Development of School For Colored People

Vespers at Mount Hermon last Sunday were conducted by Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, president of the Palmer Memorial Institute, a school for colored people in Sedalia, North Carolina. Dr. Brown's address was brief and by way of a history of the school and her share in its development. She spoke of her early endeavors, as a recent graduate of a Northern normal school, to found and build the school, with the assistance of Alice Freeman Palmer and other Northern friends. She described the struggles of the early days of the school, the difficulties in obtaining funds, the task of overcoming local prejudice, the set-backs through fires and other misfortunes.

Today, approximately a quarter of a century after its founding, the school, which originally was a single wooden shanty, is an extensive plant with modern equipment and an evaluation of half a million dollars.

The main part of the service was of a musical nature: a male sextet from the Institute sang several groups of Negro spirituals, including such familiar ones as "Certainly, Lord" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

New Reservoir Project Progresses Rapidly

The construction of Northfield Seminary's new reservoir is being pushed at a fast pace. Thirty men are now on the job, twenty of whom are local residents not regularly employed by the Seminary, and the others are regular Seminary workers. Work will be continued until the weather makes further construction impossible and will be resumed in the spring, in time to complete the project next summer.

The new reservoir will give East Northfield a reserve water supply of about 28 million gallons, normally an eight or nine months supply compared with six days' supply which is the present system's reserve capacity. This great reserve and the adequate water shed which surrounds the new reservoir assures a water supply that is not only abundant but of excellent quality. The new reservoir will continue to supply East Northfield village and the Northfield Hotel as well as Northfield Seminary.

Travel Talk Features Meeting At Church

A social afternoon was given in the vestry of the Congregational Church yesterday afternoon by the Berean Class and the Ladies' Aid Society, an invitation having been extended to all the women of the Church. The feature of the afternoon was an account of the travels and experiences of Prof. and Mrs. E. E. Morse in England last summer, given in a most interesting way by Mrs. Morse.

Poultry Show Has Big Entry List

The largest entry list in the history of local poultry shows is expected for the 21st annual show of the New England Poultry association at the North Parish hall, Greenfield, the 21st and 22d. Franklin Savage of Montague, secretary of the association, said today that he would not be surprised if 800 birds were shown. The show usually averages about 600 birds.

Entries close Saturday and the show will officially open Tuesday morning at 9, when judging will start by Howard S. Rich of Springfield and Maurice F. Delano of Dedham. Mr. Rich will take charge of the bantams, Asiatics and other breeds, while Mr. Delano will judge the American, English and Mediterranean breeds.

The Eastern States exposition champion female bird, a White Rock owned and bred by Edward M. Abercrombie of Cheapside, will be a feature of the show, which is being held officially under the auspices of the American Poultry association. There is also a possibility that the Century Progress champion, owned in Indiana, will be on exhibition. There will be a full display of Houdans, a rare French breed, owned by the Kerslake kennels of Riverside, and more than 300 birds in the bantam class.

Many prizes are to be awarded. Special ribbons from the Rhode Island club of America are to be given as prizes. Junior judging teams from New Salem, Arms and Sanderson academies will take part in the program at 2 p.m. the first day. Judging teams from M. S. C. will also probably be on hand. These arrangements are being made by the county 4-H club agent, Paul E. Alger.

H. H. Streeter of Greenfield is again acting as hall superintendent. Solon H. Stone, president and Franklin Savage, secretary of the association, are in charge of other arrangements.

Dartmouth Loses In First Game

Mt. Hermon Wins Cross Country Track Event

Reenters Interscholastics After Long Rest Period; Outside Games Will Be Limited.

Mount Hermon Preparatory School made a triumphant re-entry into interscholastics on Saturday November 11 when its cross-country team defeated the Dartmouth Freshman team in the 2.7-mile event. Hermon's reputation for turning out track men was upheld in the score, Hermon -15, Dartmouth-48, and by the fact that the first five men to cross the finish line were Hermonites, and of the first twelve men nine were Hermonites. A. S. Oldershaw of Norwich, Conn., coming in an easy first, broke the existing Hermon record for the 2.7-mile by eight seconds, his time being 13:50. At no time in the run was he pressed, and probably could have made even lower time had he been. Carl Hedman of Caldwell, N. J., John MacLeod of Baldwinville, Martin H. Lamson of Hudson, and Pliny H. Fiske of Batavia, N. Y., finished in the next four places. Fuller, coming in sixth, was the first Dartmouth man to place.

The Dartmouth team conceded the victory in fine and sportsmanlike fashion. Harvey Cohn, coach of the Dartmouth team, was enthusiastic in his praise of the Hermon runners. His own men found the hills and the gradual incline in the road through the pine the most difficult part of the course. The cross-country event was an auspicious beginning of Mount Hermon's interscholastic program, which is being augmented this week to include a soccer and a football game with Williston Academy. Games with other schools will be limited in number and will be used only to supplement the regular interscholastic athletic program, which will continue, as in the past, to be the feature and main purpose of Mt. Hermon's athletic policy.

Vermont Deer Law Dispute Is Settled

Only deer with horns not less than three inches in length may be shot legally in Vermont during the open season. That question was settled by a ruling from Attorney General Lawrence Jones, who held that it was not the intent of the last legislature to legalize the killing of does, when it amended the law to permit an extension of the open season in Essex county.

According to this ruling, the open deer season for the whole state with the exception of Essex county is from Nov. 21 to Nov. 30 both dates inclusive, but excepting Sundays. In Essex county the season extends from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30, both dates inclusive but excepting Sundays. Nowhere in the state will it be legal to shoot deer with horns less than three inches long. The law also provides that during the open seasons, hunting is limited to the hours between 6 a. m., and 6 p. m.

Williston Wins First Soccer Game

The soccer game held Wednesday between Mount Hermon School and Williston Academy was a victory for the latter with a score of 3-0.

Douglass Named To National Committee

Winchester Superintendent Chosen as Member of Teacher's Training Committee

Mr. Paul C. Stetson, superintendent of schools, Indianapolis, Indiana, and president of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, announced at Association headquarters here today that Wesley H. Douglass, superintendent of schools, Winchester, New Hampshire, has been appointed a member of a national committee on the administration of teacher training. This committee will meet and report at the Cleveland convention of the Department of Superintendence, February 24-March 1, 1934.

The appointment of this committee is an important item in a fundamental reorganization of the convention plan followed by the educational leaders in their national professional organization for many years. The change was made to extend greater responsibility to individual members in the Departments' attempt to plan more effectively for meeting the current crisis in education.

Seven such committees have been appointed by President Stetson. These groups will give their attention respectively to problems of teacher training, a comprehensive program of public education, financing the schools, education for the new America, a national outlook on education, the interpretation of the schools to the public, and public education and public welfare.

Mr. Wesley H. Douglas left Wednesday for Boston to attend a superintendents' convention.

Northfield seminary is laying plans for the construction of a new reservoir near the site of the existing one to increase the water supply of the school and of the residents of East Northfield who are supplied through the East Northfield Water Co., from this source. The needs of the school for more water has been occasioned by the increased use in added student enrollment and new uses such as the swimming pool. The population of East Northfield, supplied from the existing reservoir, also has increased. A number of lots of woodland have been acquired for this purpose, and it is planned to complete the requirement of the necessary land to protect the watershed of the new reservoir, before construction begins. Due to premature announcement of the plans of the seminary in this regard, there may be a delay in completing the purchases, but it is hoped the work may proceed rapidly as the construction of the reservoir will be a source of employment. It is also desired to increase the water reserve for that locality as the capacity use of the present supply leaves insufficient water stored for use in a prolonged drought or for adequate fire protection in the town. It is planned to have several weeks' supply in storage in the new reservoir.
